

Cambridge Public Policy

SEMINAR SERIES

Fridays in January, February and March, 1–2pm

These seminars aim to bring together a diverse range of individuals from the humanities as well as social sciences and natural sciences, to discuss the public policy implications of their work and research.

Each talk lasts 25–30 minutes and is followed by open discussion. Talks take place on Fridays (1–2pm) in the Department of Engineering, University of Cambridge.

27 Jan 'Too much of a group hug? Can radical challenge strengthen the advice provided to policymakers by government social scientists?'

Jenny Dibden

Deputy Director Delivery Directorate, Chief Research Officer and Joint Head of the Government Social Research Service

CUED LR6

3 Feb Monitoring volcanic gas emissions: from innovation to operational application

Clive Oppenheimer

Reader in Volcanology and Remote Sensing, Department of Geography, University of Cambridge

CUED LR4

10 Feb Innovation management by global health entrepreneurs

Julia Fan Li

Doctoral Student, Institute for Manufacturing, University of Cambridge

CUED LR4

17 Feb Does well-being have a role to play in public policy

Felicia Huppert

Professor of Psychology, Department of Psychiatry, University of Cambridge

CUED LR4

24 Feb Baking bread without flour: Why government computing is so broken and how universities can help fix it

Tom Steinberg

Founder of My Society

CUED LR4

2 Mar Algae for energy and industrial biotechnology

Beatrix Schlarb-Ridley

InCrops Business and Innovation Officer, Department of Plant Sciences, University of Cambridge

CUED LR4

For more information or to suggest future speakers, please email Miranda Gomperts (cambridgepublicpolicy@csap.cam.ac.uk). Please register at <http://bit.ly/nBWLLx>